The following delegates represented Ypsilanti at the Liquor Convention held at Lansing: F. J. Swaine, L. Z. Foerster, H. Hardingham, and H. W. Lewis. Swaine reports a full delegation, a quiet and earnest meeting.

Nelson Fowler fell Wednesday from the table of a threshing machine and broke his collar bone. Dr. Bonsteel set it and calculates it will take six weeks to use his arm. He stepped on to the table and a hook breaking let the table down.

How are the saloons to be closed at the proper hour at night unless officers are instructed to look after that matter and are detailed for that special duty? With the exception of the marshal, officers get no pay unless ordered out.

If people had time to travel through this state they would find that they can save money by buying goods at home. Goods are being sold in Ypsilanti to-day and work is being done cheaper than in the majority of cities of any size.

A boy named Dunlap is in the cooler waiting for the commission of juvenile criminals to look up his case. He let his angry passions fly, also stone which hit Hugh, son of D. O. Lock, in the face cutting him up somewhat, and giving him a bad looking eye. The case was decided Friday morning. Boy discharged.

Thursday morning, while Geo. Shander was driving a cow along Cross street near the R. R. track, the cow reached out for him behind and he now is troubled with the big head. Shanders is a nepheu of John Shemeld and is clerking in Shemeld & Cook's tobacco store.

J. W. Smith, who superceded J. M. Ashley, Jr., as general manager of the T. & A. A, R. R., has been "bounced" and Mr. Ashley is back again in his old position. W. F. Parker is also off, and Isaac R. Dolson, master mechanic, expected to get his walking papers yesterday.—Ann Arbor Democrat.

We have before us a neat and comprehensive catalogue of the Michigan Military Academy at Orchard Lake, printed at the Gazette office, Pontiac. There are thirteen professors and assistants; ninety-six cadets. Hon. S. Post, of this city, is one of the trustees. Alva J. Worden and Geo. H. Bogardus represent Ypsilanti among the cadets.

Capt. Allen did not try to straddle the fence at the temperance meeting last Sunday evening. He took a bold stand. Now let some of the growlers take him at his word. All he wants is some one to furnish evidence and he will see that the violators of the law are brought to time. If the "city mothers" will complain to him in the future, instead of to the editor of the Sentinel good may result.

Congressman Willits announces that there is a vacancy for the appointment of a candidate to West Point from this district. The appointment will be determined by a competitive examination to be held at Monroe the latter part of this month. The date has not yet been fixed, but will be hereafter announced. The candidate must be a resident of the district; between the ages of 17 and 22, and of sound physical constitution. There are already thirteen applicants for the appointment.

Wednesday afternoon, as Mrs. Jacob Wallace, living on the south Ann Arbor road, with her little child and Mrs. A. Watling, of this city, were driving on Adams street, the whiffletree fell down onto the horse's heels. The horse became frightened and started to run. When nearly opposite the residence of O. G. LaRue the buggy struck a post, freeing the horse and turning the buggy completely over. The ladies were thrown under the buggy. Mr. R. Curtis, who was working at Mr. La Rue's, came to their assistance. Mrs. Wallace was somewhat injured. She was taken into the house and was unable to leave for a few hours. The others were not injured. Strange to say, the buggy and horse were not materially injured.

A Republican meeting will be held at Light Guard Hall to-night, for the purpose of organizing a Garfield and Arthur club.

534 persons started with the band excursion Thursday morning. Additions were received at Wayne and Dentons. Returns have not been received from these places, but the band will nett about $150.00

The captain of the Northwest said it was the finest company he had ever carried. A number were kept away by a fear of sea-sickness, and the recent disaster. The day was beautiful. The band with their new instruments received numerous compliments.

The following was written for last week but was overlooked:

It will be remembered that last April, while Mr. and Mrs. Seymour living on Prospect street, were seated in their buggy, looking at the house which stood on the present site of the COMMERCIAL office, they were run into by a horse and buggy driven by Geo. DeMosh, were up set and Mrs. Seymour's arm broken. The matter was settled by arbitration Monday. Arbitrators, D. B. Greene, Geo. Palmer and Chas. Shier. Mr. Seymour's lawyers were E. P. Allen and J. W. Babbit; Mr. DeMosh's, F. Hinkley and S. Buroughs. The arbitrators decided that both parties were to blame, and decided no damages could be recovered.

The following delegates were elected to represent Ypsilanti at the Greenback Convention held in Ann Arbor Thursday.

First ward, A. McNichol, A. H. Ostrander,——

Second ward, Wm. Pattison, A. Mc Pherson, A. D. L. Knisely.

Third ward, H. D. Martin, Wm. Barr, Tom Duffy.

Fourth ward, Josiah Newell, Dr. Barr, M. H. G. Leighton.

Fifth ward, Dr. Babbitt, J. M. Forsyth, J. H. Davis.

Most of the delegates from here were in favor of fusion with the Democrats, but delegates from other parts of the county were opposed to it. The following delegates were elected from this District to the Convention to be held at Lansing, the 11th of this month Wm. Pattison, Dr. Babbitt, Louis Sherwood.

Mrs. Henry Schoonmaker of Burlington, Mich., has been visiting her niece Mrs. W. B. Seymour the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Peckham of Climax, Kalamazoo Co., spent last Sabbath with their daughter Mrs. W. B. Seymour of Ypsilanti.

The agent of R. L. Polk & Co. from Detroit, was in town this week canvassing for the Michigan State Gazetter.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Burgess, of Fall River, Mass., are visiting Mrs. B's aunt, Mrs. O. A. Dennis of this city.

Miss Ruby Webb, a graduate of the High School, Class of '80 is now visiting in Saline. She expects in a few days to join her father, Carl Webb, who is now residing with his family in Troy N. Y.

J. M. Weeks has moved into the house north of the COMMERCIAL office, on Huron street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Worden. Mrs. W. and daughter intend locating in Denton Texas.

J. H. Sampson and wife are visiting friends near Adrian. During their absence Clarance Bray, who has returned from Nebraska and Fred Thompson are in charge of the store.

Eugene Voorhies resigned his position last Saturday as clerk of the First Baptist Church. He expects to engage in business in Big Rapids. Members of the church say the books have never been kept so well before.

The regular attendants at the Baptist church were some what surprised to see a man in the pulpit, arrayed in the garments of a Turk He was introduced to the audience as Attarian, a young Turk who having become converted to christianity, had sold his possessions, (silk worms, etc.), and came to this country to learn more of the true religion. He had been taking a five years course at Hamilton and is now lecturing to obtain money to convert his brother Turks from the error of their ways. He gave an interesting discription of the condition of women in Turkey. There are three stages in a woman's life there. First, She is a girl until she is married, then for eight years a bride, and then a woman. Attarian said he had not been able to determine in this country to what stage a female belonged. In that country he could determine by their dress. The women there are ignorant and divorces are of frequent occurrence.

He is in hopes that their condition will soon be improved. He lectured Monday day evening, illustrating his lecture by various costumes

An old citizen at the depot called us one side Thursday morning to speak to us on a certain matter. After finishing he said "Why don't you newspaper men have the boldness to come out and attack nuisances. We told him that was our business when any good could be accomplished by so doing. He told us that a certain house of ill fame in an alley at the depot had become a public nuisance and should be looked after by the officers of the law. A petition was sent the council some time since in regard to the matter, but nothing was done about it. Persons living near there say that young men are seen entering there at all times of day. Where is the moral sentiment of the community?

The next school year of the German-English academy at Nos. 30 and 32 Farrar street will open August 30. The kinder garten, intermediate and advanced pupils will all be under the direction of Prof. Bengel, who will also teach the French and English grammars. Prof. Bengel is well-known from his nine years' connection with the State Normal School at Ypsilanti. Miss Pauline Bengel, who will conduct the piano-forte class, is a graduate of the Stuttgart conservatory and well known in local musical circles. Special attention will be paid to the scientific and kinder garten branches, and conversation and composition in French will be taught by a native French teacher. It may be stated in this connection that Prof. Bengel has just returned from a three years' absence in Germany.—Evening News.

An attempt was made last Sunday evening to burn down the Hawkins house barns and buildings in the vicinity. A fire was set just outside the barn, back of the marble factory. Kerosene had been used freely. The place is covered with wooden buildings so connected, that had the fire obtained headway, the damage would have been immens. The blaze was discovered by Jack McCarty, who was cleaning out the stables. He gave alarm and a few pails of water extinguised the flames. This occured about seven oclock almost before dark.

Before nine o'clock the same night the store of Haven's Bros., was broken into, entrance being obtained through a back window. Two boxes of cigars three revolvers and other articles amounting in all to about $15.00 were taken. This is a bold piece of work and needs looking after.

AN INVITATION.—We are commissioned to extend a special invitation to every reader of this paper by Freedman Bros. & Co., of Detroit, to call at their establishment when visiting the city this summer. You will be shown through the large and elegant store by obliging clerks who will take you from top to bottom. By the way, this firm possesses one of the finest elevators in the city and it is a real pleasure to go up and down and through their different salesrooms. It is a matter to be remembered by one who has never been "elevated" to take a trip up and down this elegant palace elevator of Freedman's. Call at this establishment.

Our thanks are due to Mr. E. C. Allen for a twenty page octavo phamphlet containing an interesting account of the city of Ottawa, Ill. A city of 10,000 inhabitants situated at the confluence of Fox and Illinois rivers, eighty-two miles south west of Chicago This city employs in her schools thirty teachers. DIED.

WILSON—At Milford, Mich, MARX WILSON, daughter of Rev. Geo. and Eliza Wilson, aged 16 years and 11 months.

Her many friends will miss her much. Her parents and sisters have the heartfelt sympathy of a wide circle of friends. It is sad to part from one so good so soon.

Gone is our loved one, gone on before;
Her work done so quickly; she's with us no more;
We'll all mourn her absence, each loved one, each friend,
Because in her being such sweetness with virtue did blend.

Yet not as without hope. We believe it is not to be long
Ere we too shall meet thee, with a numerous throng,
In that beautiful mansion, the home of the blest,
With our Savior who loves us, to be as our guest.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

The summer of 1880 will be remembered as one marked by frequent and violent storms attended not unfrequently by casualty and death.

Mr. Wm. B. Smith living on the Rawsonvile road is among those have fallen a prey to the destructive elements. From the lowering clouds, as the storm was sweeping and deluging this region last Monday evening the 26inst., shot the livid bolt of death felling him to the earth and tearing into fragments part of his clothing, as he was just leaving a cornfield in which he had been at work. His death must have been instantaneous. Mr. Smith was born in Ithaca N. Y. in 1812. He settled on the farm where he met his death, twelve years ago last spring. He was much esteemed by his neighbors a large number testifying their regard by attendance upon the funeral service, and by expressing to the afflicted family, such sympathy and rendering such services as is befitting such an occasion. For this sympathy the family express their sincere gratitude.

Mr. Smith was twice married. By his first wife, whose maiden name was Lydia Dodge, he had four daughters and two sons, viz. Mrs. L. M. Campaign, Mrs. A G. Cremer, Mrs. E. I. Doyle and Mrs. L. E. Smith, all of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. H. A. Manning of Dentons. One son was killed in the war.

About three years ago he was married to Mrs. Martha Martin, who survives him and greatly mourns his loss.

The funeral services which were conducted by Rev. W. W. Washburn were held from his late residence on Wednesday afternoon.

So again the voice of Providence re-iterates the solemn warning of the Word, "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."

COM.

Suit is to be brought against the Garland in the the United States District Court.

It certainly seems as though the original Bender family are at last in the hands of the authorities, in the recent arrests at Fremont, Nebraska. Mrs Bender made a full confession yesterday, August 3, of all the horrible murders committed on Bender's farm during 1872 and 1873.

The growth of Lansing in the past has been slow but sure, and the class of buildings constructed has been substantial, while we have almost wholly escaped the speculative mania which has cursed many towns. Our future increase in population and wealth is no myth, and it is an established fact that the capital city will soon become one of the most pleasant resident inland places of Michigan—Lansing Republican.

Secretary Thompson of the Navy Department, in a speech at Denver recently, read a letter from Gen. Hancock, indorsing the Democratic platform of 1868, which declares all the constitutional amendments, including the abolition of slavery, the enfranchisement of the negroes, and the entire reconstruction of the rebel States, to be null and void. This letter also indorsed Frank Blair's letter to Broadhead in favor of sending an army to the South to overturn the reconstruction policy of Congress. Secretary Thompson said that Hancock was sent South by Andy Johnson to nullify the acts of Congress, and his order No. 40 was intended to put the rebels on top and loyal men at the bottom. Grant refused to permit that order to be executed.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. FROM

REV. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Alban's District.

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.

DR. J. B. KENDALL & CO., Gents: My experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring bone was forming. I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

Is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, and yet it is penetrating, and powerful to reach any deep seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or any other enlargement if used for several days, such as spavins, splints, curbs, cullous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used on man or beast. It is known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated circular. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success, to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $.100 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

BEST IS CHEAPEST!

LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER

STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE. It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious

BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.

A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

DR. HOWE'S ARABIAN TONIC,
DR. HOWE'S ARABIAN MILK CURE,
DR. HOWE'S ARABIAN LIVER PILLS.

The only Medicines that have Ever Been Known to Positively Cure Consumtion.

Testimony of Hon. Jos. E. Gary, Judge of the Superior Court, Chicago, Ill.:

CHICAGO, Dec. 14, 1876.—DR. S. D. HOWE—Dear Sir: Permit me to add my grateful testimony to the army of witnesses to the virtues of your justly celebrated Arabian remedies. For a long time my wife was seriously afflicted with with a hacking cough, oppressed breathing, soreness of the chest, and constant acute pain in the lower portion of the right lung and under the shoulder blade. Her sufferings were intense, and she became extremely nervous and prostrated. Her disease was pronounced consumption by the physicians of Chicago and other cities. When you visited Chicago in June, 1873, we called on you, having very little hope of deriving help from your treatment. We were inspired by the skilful manner in which your thorough examination was conducted, and the satisfactory explanation with which you closed your diagnosis. My wife determined to take your medicines in accordance with your plain and practical directions. She began to use the Arabian Milk-Cure and Arabian Tonic; their beneficial effect at once became manifest the cough loosened and soon ceased, respiration became easy, the soreness of the chest was relieved and all pain removed, she began to gain in flesh and improve in strength and appearance. I fully believe that your medicines and skillful advice have saved the life of my wife. She unites with me in this grateful tribute to the mer it of your remedies. Very respectfully yours,

JOSEPH E GARY.

The above cut does not represent the "House that Jack Built," but shows what some active Yankee genious has brought about to ameliorate the hard lot of the overheated housewife or kitchen maid. It needs but little intelligence to see that it is a Gasoline Stove. To be appreciated it needs to be used but a very few days. For facility of operation, for comfort to the operator, and for light draft on the family exchequer, there is no other stove fit to be named the same day in comparison with it. A few were put into use last season, and created a perfect enthusiasm in the minds and hearts of the women who were fortunate enough to have husbands who were thus mindful of their comfort. We would refer to them here but those gentle ladies might be frightened to see their names in print. We have a full line of the stoves for sale on "RALLY around the flag boys." A Republican meeting to night at Light Guard Hall. A Garfield and Arthur Club will be organized. Capt. Allen, Frank Hinckley and Fred Hunt will give us their best.

The main issue of this Campaign, Shall the men who sought to overthrow this Government, less than twenty years ago rule it.

CONGRESSMEN Horr and Hubbell are re-nominated.

AUSTIN BLAIR served six years in Congress with Garfield.

Oh, "modesty"! Capt. Allen hitting Beal in a tender spot.

NORTHERN Democrats why not a solid north as well as a solid south?

Gen. Burrows terrible disaster in Afghanistan makes the British lion roar lustily.

JOHN F. LAWRENCE of this county served on the orgadization committee at Jackson.

OUR fellow citizen, Edgar Rexford is re-nominated as a member of the State Board of Education.

WHAT'S the use of summing up democratic majorities in Kentucky, or any where in the south? Labor lost.

Beal and Sawyer quarrelling! Oh! Ye Grangers, "Duped you would be and duped you are." Are the scales off yet?

THE letter of English is long and windy. Few will care to wade through it. It is a rehash of the Democratic Press since 1876.

WADE HAMPTON says that if Lee and Jackson were alive, they would vote the Democratic ticket. Of course they would, Jeff Davis is for Hancock.

THE Truth Teller, Detroit, has sold out to the Grand Rapids Leader. The latter paper will be removed to Detroit. The Truth Teller is to be a society and general Newspaper.

THE most wicked party that has existed within a hundred years in any country, is the Democratic party of the United States, with its ugly head resting in the lap of a solid south.

WERE Hancock, Garfield and Garfield Hancock, still the grand issue would be, shall the men who sought to destroy this government by a long and bloody and cruel war now control it?

AT the County Convention reports come from every section of the County of Democrats, who say they can't stand a solid, confederate south, less than twenty years ago trying to destroy the government. One town sent two delegates who have always voted the Democratic ticket.

THE proposed Temperance amendments except liquor for sacramental purposes. Such an exception is a concession to the Infidel and an insult to the churches. It is a direct thrust at the church, as a body in its holies sacrament permitting and using intoxicants. We believe the churches in this vicinity do not use the "critter" for this purpose. If there are any who do, it is a good excuse for a conscientious communicant to keep away from the communion.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

An Auspicious Result.

Hurrah for Gov. Jerome!

We give the first and last ballots:

FIRST INFORMAL BALLOT.

Whole number of votes cast	564
John T. Rich	115
Rice A. Beal	107
Thomas W. Palmer	100
F. B. Stockbridge	103
David H. Jerome	102
Charles T. Gorham	16
E. G. D. Holden	1

THE LAST BALLOT.

Jerome	318
Rich	238
Beal	4

There were six informal ballots, varying but little from the first; four formal ballots. In the last the Wayne delegation broke for Jerome. Capt. Spencer and Wm. H. Lay cast their votes for the winning candidate.

TAMMANY, the hot bed of corruption, ballot box stuffing and fraud, wants Hancock elected in order to purify the government. Oh, what patriots and paragons of virtue are these New York Democratic thieves.

CONGRESSMAN NOMINATED.—Lacy in the 3d, Burrows 4th, Horr 8th, and Hubbell the 9th. Gen. Spaulding after 263 ballots, was placed in nomination for Congress in the 6th District by acclamation.

MR. CHILDS will have a strong support at Adrian, well-nigh a solid delegation from this county. If he is defeated it will be because the farming community have not yet learned the valuable lesson "to pull together."

THE County Convention was well attended and a quiet affair considering the heartfelt interest of many of the delegates to send a solid force to Adrian next Tuesday for Mr. Childs. Willets was manifestly the second choice of at least nine tenths of the convention.

THE Tammany shoulder hitters, the successors of Tweed, ballot box stuffers unite with the red shirt ruffians, the Ku Klux, the murderers of republicans, the crushers of republican majorities by the shot gun down south, to shout the praises of Hancock. Democrats of Washtenaw county how do you like your company? Remember the fate of poor Tray.

THERE were idiots who thought Alabama would elect a greenback ticket. It has gone over 70,000 Democratic. The oppressed Republicans in order to get out if possible from the terrible shot gun and bulldozing Democracy voted with the greenbackers. Weaver says that both of these parties are under the heel of despotism of which "The half has not been told.

Dr. Tanner's name has not heretofore been mentioned in the COMMERCIAL. We have been so disgusted at his foolhardy attempt. In fact we do not like to think of a man undergoing the tortures of starvation, all to no purpose. The record of his condition and symptoms from day to day is nauseating. We are utterly faithless as to his entire abstinence from food in some form. Large bets have been made and big promises of reward on condition of his holding out. To-day winds up the agony and disgusting daily record of a madman or a fool or both.

THE Liquor Convention at Lansing was certainly a strong and enthusiastic body, 800 delegates, composed of men who either manufacture or sell the great enemy of human happiness, of a Christian civilization. Their demand that the manufacturer should be paid for his buildings, machinery, stock in trade, seems reasonable or give suficient time to sell out and change to some other business. The law of compensation however is that the privileges of a few must give away where the happiness of whole communities is endangered as in this case. Communites will reap the benefit and the families of the manufacturers and dealers in the long run.

Garfield had one continuous ovation from Buffalo to New York city. Here is his characteristic speech at Batavia.

FELLOW CITIZENS—I cannot talk much to you this morning, but I want to say to you that I am glad to see that here in Batavia, you are early risers. It is early rising that has made us what we are as a people, and it is early rising that will carry the November election. Fellow citizens, I thank you for your hearty welcome.

The gubernatorial aspirations of Rice A. Beal should not be slighted. He is the only Republican editor in the state who has not published pictures of half-smoked hams as portraits of Garfield and Arthur.—Evening News.

Oh cheek! Truly thou art brassy. The Courier pictures are Kelly and Kallock. If not, what are they? Arthur, what a fright. A paper in this city published a burlesque on all the cardidates.

GEN. HANCOCKS LETTER

Has one virtue worthy of praise. Its brevity. He endorses the Cincinnati platform.

This directly spits in the face of his party's past record, and of the record being daily made up by his southern supporters. The thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments of the Constitution of the United States, embodying the results of the war for the Union, are inviolable. If called to the Presidency I should deem it my duty to resist, with all my power, any attempt to impair or invade the full force and effect of the Constitution, which in every article, section and amendment, is the supreme law of the land.

Then follows hifalutin praise of our forefathers etc.

But the following is in point;

"It is a vital principle in our system that neither fraud nor force must be allowed to subvert the rights of the people. When fraud, violence or incompetence controls, the noblest constitutions and the wisest laws are useless. The bayonet is not a fit instrument for collecting the votes of freemen. It is only by a full vote, free ballot and fair count that the people can rule in fact, as required by the theory of our government. Take this foundation away and the whole structure falls.

Now then General, say to your supporters, your shot gun advocates, bulldozers in the south and Tammany repeaters, to cease their unhallowed, ungodly work and give us a fair and honest election this year. Aside from these two extracts the letter is one of glittering generalities. It says nothing, it means nothing. In fact the whole letter simmered down, says "Gentlemen," in Andrew Johnson style. "The Constitution is a great and grand document. If elected I am going to abide by it." The country is left in entire ignorance as to his views upon the questions of policy agitating the country.

The Hoosier Democracy are cold over the nomination of English, for Hendricks is their prime favorite, with Mc Donald next. But English, they say, has done nothing for twenty years excepting to collect his rents, foreclose his mortgages, skin the working classes, and vote the democratic ticket. His "barrel" can not be tapped much. The old Douglas democrats remember well that he was regarded by "the little giant" as his bitterest enemy Douglas called him "the Man Friday of Jesse D. Bright, and engaged in doing more than any other Indianian, excepting Bright, to inflict a deadly wound on the democratic party and plunge the country into civil war."

If Gen. Hancock were realy the greatest of American generals, as he is not, he would still not be near great enough to hide from view the crowd behind him, among whom the people recognize Ben. Hill, Hamburg Butler, Wade Hampton, the Yazoo shot-gun brigade, the Alabama bulldozers, the South Corolina red shirts, the Louisiana white league, the Georgia moonshiners, the Tammany repeaters, and a motley host of Confederates, ballot-box stuffers, false counters, etc., etc. The loyal north cannot be fooled by the trick of putting a Union general at the head of a Confederate procession—not much.

The Dexter Leader publishes portraits of the late Jim Fisk, of New York, and I. S. Kallock, of San Francisco, labelled Hancock and English.

The tone of the Democratic campaign compels a reminiscence. In the year 1864, when the first Presidential election occurred after the Democrats had been defeated in 1860, their platform declared the war to be a failure. Their State conventions throughout the war,

Willing to wound, and yet afraid to strike," had constantly hinted faults and hesitated infinite dislike. There were individual Democrats, indeed, like General Dix and DANIEL S. DICKENSON in New York, who unreservedly took the strongest patriotic ground; but the Democratic party as a party cavilled, contested and obstructed, and the rebels looked to it as their surest hope.

Col. Ingersoll says the Democratic nominees are not good enough to get any Republican votes, nor bad enough to excite great enthusiasm in the Democratic party.

Everything points to a continuance of Republican rule, and a consequent continuance of our present prosperity.

The editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, Hon. Henry Watterson, has served in Congress with General Garfield and is one of the most pronounced Democratic leaders in the country. While he fights with vigor and dosen't hesitate to use ordinary campaign material to aid the Democratic cause, still he has stated in a recent interview "that he shall take the opportunity offered by the first campaign speech which he makes to put his foot down, as far as he is concerned, up on the idea that Gen. Garfield is not an honest man.

George W, Curtis, the "voter in the air", as Wm. M. Evarts says, but who represents 20,000 others, thinks that while the nomination of Hancock is respectable still it represents nothing but the inability of the Democratic party to agree upon one of its prominent men. When asked whether general Hancock would be acceptable to the East, Mr. Curtis said: "I do not see how he can be any more popular in the East than Gen. Garfield. Gen. Hancock was a distinguished officer in the Regular Army, and Gen. Garfield was a distinguished officer of the volunteers. I think that a distinguished officer of volunteers excites quite as much enthusiasm as an illustrious regular officer." When further asked if he thought Hancock would carry New York, he replied: "No, I do not. I see no reason, whatever, to doubt that with the feeling of union in the Republican party, and the universal satisfaction with Gen. Garfield as a candidate, he will carry the state of New York against Gen. Hancock."

General Grant reviewed a procession "over a mile long" at Kansas City, yesterday, and then departed for Leavenworth

The patriotism of the present generation is not less fervent and intense than that of any generation that preceded it. The late war was a perfect test of that.

The devotion of the soldiers of the Union to the old flag and the declaration of the equality of men was not surpassed by those Continentals who wintered with Washington at Valley Forge or swung their caps at the surrendsr of Cornwallis. Were there occasion, they would rally to the flag again as ahe Contenentals did who

"Left the plowshare in the field,
Their flocks and herds without a fold!"

MAN OF THE PEOPLE.—Wm. H. English's barred room will probably figure in the canvass and furnish material for many a pointed cartoon. Mr. English's sleeping room at his residence on the circle, when he was president of the First national bank, looked more like a prison than a room in a private residence in the heart of a populous city. The doors and windows were barred with iron, Mr. English locking himself in when he retired at night to prevent bank robbers from coming to his residence and carrying him off. He was particularly fearful during the strike of the workingmen in 1877, and always retired to his prison at an early hour, carefully locking himself in.—Indianapolis Journal.

The Democrats say the people want a change. In one respect they are doubtless right. The people want a most decided change in the House of Representatives.

Gen. Grant in a recent interview, at Denver, Col., said: "I can say without hesitation that I will give Garfield my hearty support. There is no reason why any Republican should not vote for him. I know him to be a man of talent thoroughly accomplished, and an upright man. I have nothing against Hancock, but Garfield is the man for the office."

The Democratic party reduced the credit of the government so low that, in 1861, the Buchanan administration issued bonds which were sold at twelve per cent. discount to borrow money to pay current expenses.

Wade Hampton knew very well what he was talking about when he arose in the Cincinnati Convention after Hancock was nominated and pledged him the 138 votes of the "solid south." The Greenville News, published in Hampton's kingdom, declares that Republican meetings "will not be submitted to."

Geo. W. Curtis thinks that every advantage is on the side of the Republicans in New York state.

Garfield is the first presidential candidate who has never voted any but the Republican ticket.

I am in sympathy and co operation with my Republican friends "in support of a candidate of pure character, wise statesmanship and life-long fidelity to the principles of the Republican party, the union of the states and the security of the rights of person, property and franchise."—John G. Whittier.

The Chicago Times has this "plumper" upon the Democrats: "Before the Democratic brethren prolong the fraud howl any further they had better do three things: First, explain why they have not presented the great defrauded as their candidate for the office to which they claim he was elected; second, state why they aided in consummating the fraud by voting for the electoral commission and acquiescing in its decisions and, third, produce some democrat who has refused to accept office at the hands of the "fraudulent president."

TO THE MEMORY OF MRS. MARY CAMP.

When Christians leave their friends and go—
Far above this world of sin and woe;
Their long lives ever true and kind
Leave hallowed memories in the mind.

When strangers from a foreign land
Then helped us with a kindly hand.
Forty years of friendship we revive
Every friend and neighbor found her true.

Some loving hearts are never cold,
Their worth is not exchanged for gold
They stand the trial undismayed,
When they are in the balance laid.

They were rewarded for her worth
Even in the joys and storms of earth
For grace and peace and hope were given. W. L.

CAUGHT IN A TORNADO.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

"You will take the lower road, Tom."

"And why should we go round that way?" Tom was fixing a strap and did not look up. His father scanned the horizon.

"If it should come up a blow you'd find it safest. I tell you now if you get a sweep like I got twenty years ago you'll mind it the remainder of your life."

"Was it so bad?" said Crissy, who was admiring her new shoes. They were the daintiest Tom could find in the city, and Crissy had fairy-like feet.

"Bad! bad! Why, it blew the wagon-bed across the creek—blew big trees down as thick as I am."

Crissy looked at him. "Why that must have been awful."

"Wait till you see one of the big winds we get up out here. No! I'd rather you'd go back east and see one. You mightn't live to tell on't," said Jim Pringles to himself. Then he turned to his son Tom again. "You take my advice, and go the lower road."

Tom did not answer. He did not see any signs of a storm. He wanted to show Crissy all the places they had been talking about, and they were on the upper road. There were stretches on the upper road where one could see miles and miles.

"Come, Crissy, I'm waiting on you." Tom helped his new bride into the light wagon, turned to the people in the doorway, and giving his horses the rein, away they started over the praire.

It was dawn. The early fingers of the early morn stretched upwards, dissolving the shadowy mist that hung over the prairie, and the belt of timber that skirted one side of the road all the way to Wampum Point. The pefumes exhaling from the flowers as they opened their leaves, filled the atmosphere with a rich odor. Calm, perfect peace enveloped the scene like a mantle thrown over it by the Mighty Spirit of eternal good will, as Tom, who did not often "drop into poetry," expressed it.

"How lovely, Tom," was all Crissy said, as she lifted up a hand for the sake of feeling the air on it solely.

"I always think so," said Tom, briefly.

As the red and golden glories stretched above the horizon, a breeze came up that fanned Crissy's cheeks, carressed her hair lightly, and sighed through the trees at her left. The god of day wheeled his chariot aloft, radiating, as only the summer sun can, the rarest tints of amber and crimson and gold, until the purple glories rolled aloft like great billows, and arched themselves into pillars through which Crissy caught, in fancy, glimpses of the celestial city. She did not dare speak, but sat perfectly quiet, drinking in the beauties of one of the most beautiful mornings ever witnessed in the West.

She was surprised beyond expression when Tom suddenly pointed ahead, saying, "There is Wampum Point."

"Why, Tom, we surely have not reached Wampun Point—isn't it eight miles from your house?"

"Near ten, Crissy. Why, how long do you think we have been on the road?"

"I don't know—half an hour at the most."

"Nearer an hour and a half—just one hour and twenty-two minutes," said Tom, as he looked at his watch.

Sure enough there was Wampum Point, a small town of about eight hundred population lying a little below them and in the distance a ribbon of molton gold, as the sun's slanting rays fell upon the river.

Tom's business did not detain him long in town. He derived rare enjoyment from the looks of his friends as he introduced them to Crissy as "Mrs. Pringle." He never boasted of his good luck, but in the matter of mating with beauty and intelligence, Tom knew there was no one in the country so fortunate. The bride created a ripple of talk. There was a something about Tom's wife that made both men and women turn to look at her.

"Now," said Tom, after they had bid their friends in Wampum Point goodbye, "we will go to Rocky Point, Painted Rock, and all the rest of the places you've heard and read about."

That was a glorious ride. Tom had become absorbed, and was talking as fast as the horses ran. The various points of interest were described tersely, always with an incident that added to the novelty of first sight, until they finally reached Barrett's Peak, when Tom tied the horses, helped his wife out, and prepared for lunch. Crissy, he said, was infinitely more graceful than Miss Anderson as Parthenia, as she persisted in fetching water from the spring at the base of the great rock that capped the peak.

"If I could only get on top of it, Tom," she said, when they had finished their lunch.

Tom surprised her by saying coolly, "now we'll go up and take a look about us from the top, Crissy."

Such a view. A sweep of sixty miles at least, Tom said, as he handed her the glass, after adjusting it.

Tom sat and admired, and Crissy looked until she thought she had photographed everything that was to be seen in that beautiful picture.

"Do you see that hill to the left there," said Tom, pointing to one sharp-looking cone. "That's where all the wind comes from."

"What do you mean, Tom?"

"Well, back of that, for forty miles or more, there is a valley that reaches out and finally spreads up inland that is like our prairie; but it plays the very deuce with things about Wampum Point, for sometimea it rains. and all the water in that part of the county sweeps down, fills the neck of that defile and vomits it out all over Wampum Point. The wind blows down like mad and strips the country bare."

"You are joking, Tom."

Tom assured her he was in sober earnest, adding:

"Do you know how long we have been here, Crissy?"

Crissy supposed half an hour—maybe three-quarters.

"Just two, to a minute. Now we'll go. It is three o'clock. It will be near four when we get back to Wampum Point."

"See that cloud way off there, Tom."

"About the size of a man's hand."

"It's the only speck in the sky," said Crissy.

"It's not like our sky," said Tom, as he kissed her on top of the rock. Then, giving her his hand, he helped her down the rough places. When they were at the base of the peak Crissy was determined to carry away bits of mosses and flowers to keep. She never wanted to forget that beautiful day. And Tom helped her. Another hour was consumed; then they got into the wagon and turned homeward, not on the lower road, though.

"We've come the upper and we'll return the upper road," said Tom.

At that moment Crissy recalled his father's words. She reminded Tom of his father's warning. He laughed gaily, and his laugh reassured her.

They bowled along at a lively rate. Tom said his cattle smelled oats. Suddenly he inclined his ear, as a sound smote the air. Curious he thought. He had never heard anything just like that before.

They were now fairely entered upon the level land, upon which Wampum Point was built. He pointed the town out to Crissy, as he gave his horses a cut. He had a vague misgiving. An undefinable feeling possessed him suddenly.

"Oh, Tom, what is it?" Crissy was looking back; her hand clutched her husband's arm. Tom turned. A cloud like a black wall was rushing down on them. Nothing like it was ever seen. It was black as ink. An awful fear possessed him as he looked. There was a hush, a stillness in the air as chilling as the terrible cloud behind them. "What is it, dear Tom?" cried Crissy.

"A storm comming up—maybe we may reach Wampum Point—heaven only knows," he added to himself.

Then a sound smote their ears that was like the crash of worlds. The horses plunged forward, breaking all control, and galloped on to the river. Tom Pringle clasped his bride with his right arm, and held his wagon with his left hand, shutting his teeth like a vise. The earth groaned under their feet. A sound like the scream of millions of locomotive whistles gathered in one deafened them. Earth and sky were obliterated. Tom Pringle felt himself lifted bodily up, and flung like a flake of down through the air. When he recovered his senses he was lying in the river, with Crissy beside him. The water was so shoal at the place they were cast into that it scarcely covered them. Tom rose and sat up. He spoke to his wife, but she did not answer. Then he put his hand up to his face helplessly. It was bleeding. His eyes were full of sand. But what was strangest of all, he was coatless, and the few clothes left upon him were rags. Again he called to Crissy, lifting her up He felt her hands, her cheeks; then dragged her up on the shelving sandy beach, under the bluff bank It seemed an age to Tom Pringle before his wife opened her eyes. In reality it could not have been two seconds, judging from the fate that befell Wampum Point that afternoon.

When Crissy opened her eyes and turned them upon Tom, she shrieked, and sprang to her feet. "You are killed—you'll die Tom!"

"I hope not," said Tom, slowly.

"You are dying now—you are, awful to look on."

"Help me up the bank, Crissy," was all he said, as he staggered unsteadily, putting his hand to his eyes again.

How they got on the bank again, they never knew. They were nearly naked, bruised, and Tom's left arm was broken in two places. On the bank once more, Tom sat down beside his wife and looked about them. Not a tree, not a shrub was to be seen. Uprooted trees, limbs, tufts of grass uprooted, were strewn over the ground. They looked where Wampum Point stood. The town had disappeared. Through his grimy vision, Tom beheld some walls standing, As for the rest, all that he could see was a confused mass.

"Crissy, my eyes are full of dust and sand. Can you make out Wampum Point over there?"

Crissy only huddled herself nearer him, and sobbed,

"I thought so," said Tom. "I guess there's not much left of the town. Who knows, maybe we two are the only ones the tornado has spared. Crissy, it's the first time, but I'll try to pray now." And they fell on their knees, turning their faces toward Wampum Point, where eighty lives were blotted out in an instant that day, and three times as many more maimed for life.

Weeks after Tom and Crissy were found on the river bank unable to walk home, they recalled his father's warning. The tornado did not touch the lower road, it swept the upper road like a destroying angel.—New York Mercury.

TONS OF DOLLARS.

Vast Piles of Silver in the New York Sub-Treasury.

From the New York Post.

In view of the complaint of Assistant Treasurer Hillhouse, in his recent letter to Secretary Sherman, concerning the great and increasing accumulation of silver at the sub-treasury in this city, some additional facts on the subject were obtained to day by a reporter of the Evening Post Mr. Britton, the cashier, and Mr. Ashley, the chief of the coin division, exhibited the huge vault for the storage of silver, which has been constructed in the basement of sub-treasury. In the various compartments of this vault, which is 47 feet long, 27 feet wide, and 12 feet high, inside measurement, there are now stowed away about $20,419,000 silver, amounting in weight to about 612¼ tons. The $65,125,000 in gold now at the sub-treasury weighs but 160½ tons, and in bulk the proportion of gold to silver is but as 1 to 27. Of the vast mass of silver there are about $47,000 in half dimes, $1,004,000 in dimes, $3,238,000 in quarters, $3,650,000 in standard dollars. No trade dollars are received, but the "buzard" standard dollars continue to pour and to pile up, without being of use to any one. They are packed in canvas bags containing $1,000 each, and weighing between 56 and 60 pounds, which are ranged in the vaults row upon row, and are constanly pearing both the roof and the passageway. In order to prevent confusion it is necessary, of course, to keep each denomination of coin separate, and this fact assists to limit the available space for the dollars. The capacity of the vault has not yet been reached by any means, and will not be when many millions more have been received, but are many serious objections to cramming the departments as full as possible. With the carefulness in packing which is practiced, there may not be much danger of bursting the iron latice-work partitions by the lateral pressure of the coin; but the packing of the bags in so many tiers tends to make it very difficult to count the deposits correctly at the regular inspections. A rehandling of the bags on every occasion of counting is, of course, out of the question when the weight and bulk involved are so enormous.

SLIPS.

These men—whose blasphemies I have heard about, but never heard—seem to me to be shouting, "We are not afraid!" that they may drown their own fears. Like boys in the night, when ghostly shadows confront them, they hop in the clamor of their voices to still the wild beatings of their heart.

To-morrow is one of the most subtle deceivers. Promise yourself new energies or a better life for to-morrow, and you will feel that your hoped-for improvement is near at hand, and yet it will never be realized.

It is not half so important to do some thing as it is to be something.

A PITIFUL STORY.—A ten years-old whose leg was recently cut off by a train of cars at Dubuque, Iowa, was too plucky to make any fuss over the incident. When the little fellow was taken home his legs hung limb, but he did not complain. Not a tear stood in his eyes, but the tender look he gave to those who stood by his side told plainly that he was suffering great agony. After the doctor had dressed his wounds he called his parents, sisters and brothers to his bedside, kissed one and all farewell, and left a tear upon their cheeks. A second time he called his mother to his side, placed his little arms about her neck, and said: "Mother, I am going to die in a few minutes. Please forgive me for not minding you." With this the little fellow fell back, and as the mother said, "Yes, my angel," and took another look at his face she found him dead and beyond all pain and suffering.

Inspector General Dumont tells a rather remarkable story about the political outlook in Oregon, where he was recently during his trip to the Pacific coast. He says the people seemed to be as excited about politics as though it was near the time for the presidential election. What was stranger, all were talking for Garfield. He concluded that either everyone was a Republican, or else no one but Republicans traveled. The whole State is aroused, and Garfield will sweep everything. There are no Democrats to be heard from since the late congressional election.

The mask of a Union soldier, behind which the confederate brigadiers are trying to hide themselves, does not captivate any Republicans worth mentioning.

The following are among the reasons assigned in Judge Orton's letter for his change of political relations:

"Whatever the Democratic party may have been in the past, it is essentially and absolutely the party of the South today. Of the 185 electoral votes required to elect a president this fall, the Democratic party counts 138 votes from the solid South—made up of States which seceded, or wanted to secede and dared not—solid in advance for its candidate. The balance, forty seven votes, they hope to get in the North. Thirty-five of them they confidently expect from the city of New York, for the State of New York, outside the city, is as strongly Republican as Wisconsin.

BOB INGERSOLL ON HANCOCK.—The public is not apt to get enthusiastic over these professional soldiers—who were educated for war in time of peace. Of course we expect such men to do the fighting when there is fighting to be done. It's their business. Now, it's different with a volunteer. When a man leaves a plow, and kisses his wife and goes out to be shot at for a principle, that is believed to be patriotic and inspires enthusiasm. Then, too, we don't look at generals as specially typical of patriotism. We never had to draft for generals, that I remember. We always had plenty.

The Albany Journal gives three solid reasons why Hancock should not and cannot be elected. They are:

1. He will be beaten because of his recognized unfitness for the position.

2. He will be beaten for the same reason that Tray came to grief—he is caught in bad company.

3. Hancock will be beaten because his opponent is infinitely better fitted for the presidency.

WHAT BETTER EVIDENCE.

Could the people ask to substantiate the merits of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines than the fact that they have not only yearly grown in popular favor in this country, but the foreign demand for them has become so great as to necessitate the establishing a branch of the celebrated World's Dispensary in London, England, that these blessing to the afflicted may be dispatched from that greatest commercial center of the world to every country and people? Golden Medical Discovery is a concentrated, potent, alterative, or blood cleansing remedy, that wins golden opinions of all who use it for all humors from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the formidable scrofulous swelling. Internal fever, soreness and ulceration, yield to its benign influence. Consumption, which is but a form of scrofulous effection of the lungs, may in its early stages be cured by a free use of this God given remedy. See article on consumption and its treatment in "Invalids' Guide Book"—10 cents post-paid. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WORCERSTER, MASS., Feb. 3d, 1879.
DR. R. V. PIERCE:
DEAR SIR—With trembling hand, from my extreme age, being eighty-five, I write to inform you of the great benefit your Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets have been to me. Three years ago I was prostrated with pneumonia, and no one thought I would recover. By the use of those medicines I was raised to health, and by the blessing of God and your medicines I have enjoyed pretty good health since, though for years before this I suffered from weak lungs and a bad cough.
Gratefully yours, MARY B. FISK.

ANSWER THIS.

Did you ever know any person to be ill, without inaction of the Stomach, Liver or kidneys, or did you ever know one who was well when either was obstructed or inactive; and did you ever know or hear of any case of the kind that Hop Bitters would not cure. Ask your neighbor this same question.—Times.

HARTFORD, WIS., Nov. 13, 1880.
WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Burlington, Vt
DEAR SIR—For years from time to time I have been troubled with lame back and have been able to get anything that afforded me little if any relief, until I was recommended to use your Kidney-Wort, have used but part of a box and am entirely cured. Respectfully Yours,
DAVID M. HATTEN.

SIRS—My wife has been using your Kidney-Wort for a short time for Kidney Complaint, and is greatly benefited thereby. Enclosed find the money for another package. REV. A. B. COLEMAN.

NIJNE NOVGOROD FAIR.—The great market of the Eastern world has been held at this junction of the Volga and Olga Rivers in Russia, every summer for hundreds of years. Here the nation of Europe and Asia meet with their products for trade. Cossack, Chinese, Turk, and Persian meet the German and the Greek with every variety of merchandise that mankind employs, from sapphires to grindstones, tea, opium, fur, food, tools, and fabrics, and last but not least, medicines. J. C. Ayer & Co's. celebrated remedies from America were displayed in an elegant Bazaar, where the Doctor himself might sometimes be seen. They are known and taken on steppes of Asia as well as the prairies of the West, and are an effectual antidote for the diseases that prevail in the yaourts of the North as well as the huts and cabins of the Western continent.—Lincoln, Ill., Times.

Live Long and be Happy.

Why should not everyone live out their full allotted time, enjoy good health and be happy? Surely there is no good reason, and many will allow impure blood, weakness of the kidneys, imperfect digestion, and urinary troubles to undermine and break down their general health, and carry them to a premature grave. Some seek relief in mineral poisons, in pill form, etc., others resort to extensively advertised alcoholic beverages and fermented liquors, only to feel themselves for a time somewhat better, but after a while, much worse. Now why should this be so? It is well known by the intelligent portion of our community that Dr. Guysott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla will surely remove all these disorders. This remedy is the wonderful discovery of an eminent French physician, and has proven in thousands of instances to be the best vegetable blood purifier known to medical men. It never fails to effectually cure Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, weakness of the kidneys, all nervous disorders and debility, and all urinary and digestive troubles. It makes the old feel full of youthful vigor, and the young energetic and gay, restoring perfect manhood and womanhood, especially when the disease has a tendency to weaken the mind, body, and nervous system. Do not despair. A single bottle will convince you of its great merit as a health renewer for it begins at once to give new life and new vigor to both body and mind, never failing to remove all symptons of any and every disease that can be cured by cleansing, renovating, purifying and strengthening the human system, driving out, as by magic, the many ills that flesh and blood is heir to, and building up new health, new vigor, and new life. Large quart bottle, $1 00. Have your druggist get this excellent preparation for you—take no other 845-1yr.

Be Wise in Time.

It is a fact well known by almost all intelligent families that Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Chery has cured more cases of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc., than any any other physician's presecriptions ever compounded. It relelves, as if by magic, all soreness and irritation of throat and lungs. It is quieting and soothing in its effect, and is unexcelled as a general tonic. Keep a bottle always on hand. A few doses never fail to cure an ordinary rough or cold. Price of large pint bottles, $1.00. Have your druggist get you this wonderful cure—take no other. 8451y

Junior Buckeye
MOWER.
Don't fail to read the following before purchasing.

Parties in want of a Lawn Mower should not fail to see the NEW BUCKEYE.
A few of its merits are
1. It is about one-third lighter than other mowers in the market.
2. Simplicity, strength, and durability.
3. Ease of working and not liable to get out of order.
4. All parts requiring strength are made of the best quality of iron and cast steel.
5. The gears are so located that it is impossible to clog them with cut grass.
6. The wheels are 7½ inches in diameter, and both drivers, so that it runs lightly and will cut turning either right or left.
7. When drawn backward the ground wheels only reverse motion, consequently is more easily handled.
8. It has theee cast steel revolving cutter blades, set at such an angle with the stationary knife, as to give a perfect shear cut.
9. The cutter bar is made of cast steel tempered and is easily adjusted.
10. Has an adjustable roller running the entire width of the machine to regulate the height of cut. See directions.
11. It has adjustable handles and addapts itself to irregularities of the surface.
12. Can sharpen it yourself without going to a repair shop. See directions.
13. It is a perfect "little beauty," being compact, thoroughly made and beautifully finished. In short, it is the most perfect Lawn Mower ever placed udon the market.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Republican county convention to elect sixteen delegates to the congressional convention to be held at Adrian, on Tuesday, Aug. 10, met Tuesday and was called to order at noon, by A. J. Sawyer, chairman of the county committee, who took advantage of the occasion to explain his connection with the proposed nomination for congressman. He wished it understood that he had never been a candidate in the interest of any other man, or with a view to secure a division of the delegation from this county, and thereby deprive Washtenaw of all chance of securing the nomination. He wished it understood also that he had never made a contract or bargain not to be a candidate. He believed in the right of the majority to rule. He saw that he did not have the majority, and he therefore withdrew. He believed Washtenaw county to be entitled to the nomination, and he hoped to see it accomplished.

Andrew Campbell, of Pittsfield, was called to the chair, and E. P. Goodrich, of Ypsilanti, was made temporary secretary.

The following committees were appointed.

Permanent organization—J. W. Wing Scio. Col. H. S. Dean, Ann Arbor; J. E Smith and F. C. Owen, Ypsilanti; David Wilsey, Pittsfield.

Credentials—Chas. E. Hiscock, Ann Arbor. H. D. Platt, Pittsfield; J. M. Chidister, Ypsilanti.

The convention then adjourned to 2 o'clock.

Reconvening at that time, at the recommendation of the committee on permanent organization, the temporary organization was made permanent.

The committee on credentials reported the following delegates as entitled to seats:

[We give only delegates from this section.—ED. COM.]

Augusta—H. P. Thompson, N. A. Redner, Wm. Dansingburg, T. C. Howard.

Lodi—L. Basssett, Isaac Allen, Fred Wood, Eli Brainard.

Pittsfield—H. D. Platt, Andrew Campbell, M. F. Case, David Wilsey.

Superior—J. A. Wilber, M. Clements, R. E. Townsend, Wm. Manley, A. M. Kimmel.

Salem—W. B. Thompson, Ira Stanton, S. Sober, J. Thompson.

Saline—Ezra Robinson, Harvey Bennett, R. H. Marsh, Jas. Hoyt, A. G. Nickerson, W. B. Gildart.

York—R. Salsbury, L. C. Allen, Jas. Gauntlet, jr., J. W. Blakeslee, J. D. Forsyth.

Ypsilanti City—First Ward—J. N. Chidister, J. E. Post, O. A. Ainsworth.

Second Ward—E. P Goodrich, E. P. Allen, Dr. W. H. Hall.

Third Ward—H. Batchelder, Dr. F. K. Owen, C. R. Pattison.

Fourth Ward—F. A. Hunt, H. E. Dickinson.

Fifth Ward—S. W. Parsons, G. W. Havens.

Ypsilanti Town—Wm. Campbell, Benj. Emerick, J. Everett Smith, Chas. Fletcher.

Chairman Campbell again thanked the convention for making him chairman. He said that it was admitted by everyone that Washtenaw county had the right to name the next congressman, and that there was one man upon whom they were united with a desire to bestow the nomination. He called attention to the impetus which would be given the county ticket by having a candidate for congress at the head. He counseled all Republicans to be united, for in union there was strength.

F. P. Allen also spoke briefly. He thought that a delegation should be sent to Adrian, which would be influential and solid, so that the interests of the great county of Washtenaw might be properly represented and her influence receive its proper recognition. In such a case he had no doubt of Mr. Child's nomination. He suggested the name of Andrew Campbell, of Pittsfield as delegate at large.

The convention then separated into representative districts and elected the following delegates to the Adrian convention:

First District—E. P. Allen and F. K. Owen, Ypsilanti; L. C. Allen, York; H. D. Platt, Pittsfield; Harvey Bennett, Saline.

Second District—Chas. E. Hiscock, Ann Arbor; John C. Mead, Ann Arbor Town; H. S. Dean, Ann Arbor.

Third District—Wm. Judson, Superior; Thos. Burket, Dexter: John Henley, Scio; J. H. Kingsley, Manchester; Geo. Osborne, Sharon.

The first and second districts recommended Andrew J. Campbell as delegate at large, and the third district, Wm. J. Knapp, of Sylvan. The convention proceeded to take a ballott, which resulted in the election of Mr. Knapp by a majority of nine.

The following resolution was adopted by the first and second districts:

Resolved, That the delegates of this district be instructed to use all honorable means to secure the nomination of our distinguished fellow citizen, J. Webster Childs, for Congress, and in no event to abandon earnest efforts for his success unless the time shall arrive when a majority of the delegates from the county shall decide that further effort is useless.

Eight of the delegates are sure for Childs, two or three are doubtful, and the remainder are for Willits.

From the Courier.

Dr. A. I. Sawyer, of Monroe, is credited with a desire of securing the democratic congressional nomination in this district.

Conuty Clerk Clark reports business in his office well up. The births and marriages are all copied and ready to forward to the state department at Lansing, which is several weeks in advance of last year.

The crayon picture executed by S. Grant Haywood, of Ypsilanti, which was on exhibition at the office of Judge Harriman last March, has been sold to a Detroit party for $125. This young artist is soon to start for Colorado, in search of a climate which will improve his exceedingly poor health.

This democratic party now tell us they are to succeed, and make a great cry over their certain victory, and why? Because they have stolen our platform and nominated a Union general to stand thereon. But, gentlemen, the mask is too thin. The republican party is the one to carry forward the principles they have so gallantly struggled for for so many years. Why, the democratic party became so honey-combed by untenable positions that they dare not nominate one of their prominent men at Cincinnati and took for their standard bearer a military man who had no record except the one he gained by his sword, backed by the great republican party of the nation. With this mask they hope to succeed, and are peaking around through the rails of the fence to see if the people can discover the body and tail behind that head. The people do see them both and propose to scorch that tail next November, too.—Capt. Allen.

Before the campaign closed he would give his reasons for his change of views, and proposed to make them known from one section of the State to the other. Right or wrong, a citizen had the privilege in this country to speak his opinion, which was a thing he proposed to do. The Democrats claim with a big howl that they are to elect their whole ticket this year. He fought in the minority a great many years, and if their statements were true, they couldn't accuse him of changing his views to unite with the majority. While a Democrat he did his work conscientiously, and if anyone had any blows to give, he would receive them, but he had none to return. The republican party at Chicago had proved itself capable of rising above the party whip and the political machine, and had broken with all rings and cliques. In the nomination of James A. Garfield for President, we saw a spectacle of the office seeking the man.—R. E. Frazer.

When we saw the ingratitude, and the base, mean, and uncompromising measures which had been put forth by Congress and by southern men, he was perfectly contented that the party which had brought us to this high tide of prosperity, and to the point where a dollar was worth a dollar should continue to hold the reins of government. This opposite party has been wasting the treasures of our country, and has endeavored in every way to hamper the Republicans in their measures for the public good: They repealed the specie resumption act and passed laws by which the government is hoarding away silver in such amounts that the Secretary of the Treasury is at a loss to find room in the treasury vaults for the same, or to know how to guard it against thieves and robbers. They have opposed every beneficent measure that has been proposed by the Republicans; they are blind to the best interests of the nation; they are for self alone. "The Republican party is certainly the party of patriotism and virtue, and controlled by good motives. I shall help that party all I can, and I hope I am not putting a false estimate on the good sense and sound judgment of the people of this nation when I predict that on the 2d of November there will be an expression which will emphasize the opinions expressed to day."—Prof. Winchell.

From the Democrat.

The Democrat office has been removed to rooms No. 6 and 7, opera house block.

The liquor dealers to the number of 40, have gone to Lansing as representatives from this county to the mass convention.

The railroaders have gone to work again on the Northeastern road. Gov. Ashley who has been in New York and Boston for several weeks has raised the money it is said, to furnish the grading from here to Pontiac.

Capt. Allen a delegate at large to the republican state convention, is one of the stanchest temperance men in the country. There is not a red ribbon club that he has not spoken before, and at the late temperance mass meeting here, he fully set forth his views on the question of prohibition. R. E. Frazer, who is one of the district delegates to the convention, is also a pronounced prohibitionist, he is well known throughout the state and has spoken in nearly every town of importance to large red ribbon audiences.

He is also badly burned about the head; but notwithstanding succeeded in dragging the stove out of the house in time to save the building from burning.

WHEAT STATISTICS have been compiled in the office of the secretary of state for 1,006 townships in Michigan or nearly 96 per cent of the whole. Assuming that the 45 townships not returned are the same as last year, the total number of acres raised in 1879 was 1,601,710, being an increase of 29,784; and the number of bushels in 1879 was 10,910,853, being an in crease of 1,460 727, and the average yield per acre was 19.31 bushels, being an increase of over half a bushel. The acreage in wheat in May, 1880, was 1,835,191, being an increase of 192,482 from May, 1879. Ingham county shows 50,914 acres, in May, 1880, while in 1879 there were raised 817,645 bushels on 44,315 acres, an average of 18.45 bushels per acre. Nearly all the above statistics are furnished by the supervisors of the different townships.

SAD ENDING OF A SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.

With a beautiful day, a fine party of grown people and children, and last and most important, a staunch boat, it gave promise yesterday morning that the excursion to Point Lookout under the auspices of Hess Street M. E. Church (South Saginaw), would be a pleasant affair indeed, and one of the most enjoyable pleasure trips of the season. Such for a time it proved to be, for after a pleasant sail the Point was reached, where several hours were passed happily, in rambling about, bathing and visiting, and about 3:15 a merry party embarked for home. After the boat had been about three-quarters of an hour on the bay, however, a sad event occured that caused the greatest sorrow to fall upon all on board.

A young lady about sixteen years of age named Lizzie Considine, while laughing and joking with a number of companions on the forward part of the upper deck, conceivdd the notion of looking through a cabin window for the purpose of noting the movement of friends within. For this purpose she stood upon a stool, steadying herself by holding on to the rope netting running along the edge of the hurricane deck. By some means,—how, is not known—she lost her ballance and fell forward into the water, her head striking against the heavy beam forming the edge of the deck. The unfortunate girl fell immediately in front of the paddle-wheel, and is supposed to have been struck by it and carried under the water, as she was not again seen by the horror-stricken witnesses of the accident; though one or two thought they caught a glimpse of her face near the top of the water once. As soon as possible the steamer was stopped, boats lowered and search for the body made, but all to no purpose. Seeing that their efforts were fruitless, the boat was at last again turned homeward, but how changed the spirits of those on board.—Bay City Herald.

WEAVER.

His Observations and Reports of Southern Intimidation.

Gen. James B. Weaver, the Greenback candidate for President, spoke in the city of Wheeling, W. Va., last Saturday evening to a large audience. The general had just come from an electioneering tour in Alabama, and in an interview with an Intelligencer reporter he said of the stories of bulldozing and frauds in elections in the South the half has not been told. He says that Gen. West, of Mississippi, told him at Salem, that if Gen. Hancock was elected such an impetus would be given to the spirit of hatred and intolerance for Republicans in the South that he (West) did not believe he could live in Mississippi a day. Gen. Weaver is hopeful of carrying Alabama at the election for the Greenback ticket. He claims that the Republicans are joining the Greenback party in large numbers in the hope that they will thus be freed from the ostracism under which they live. A week before Weaver spoke at Montgomery, a Republican meeting had been broken up by a mob, and after the speakers, one of whom was General Burke, collector of customs at Mobile, had been driven from the stand, the Democratic solicitor of Montgomery mounted it and shouted "G—d d—n them, they can outvote us, but we will count them out every time." This information Gen. Weaver had on unimpeachable testimony.

POLITICAL SLIPS.

The "inwardness" of the Hancock campaign is correctly stated in the current number of Harper's Weekly, as follows:

The Democratic campaign this year, as in every presidential election for the last sixteen years, is a huge sham and pretense. The party has practically abandoned its platform of fraud by discarding the candidate who was in himself that platform; and without principles or policies of its own, quotes Republican principles from a Union general, and nominates him upon them as a platform. The Republican party was the Union party, which directed the war and Gen. Hancock. The Republican party was the party of the principles which Gen. Hancock announced in his Louisiana order. He was relieved at his own request, not because he enforced those principles, but because he was believed from his conduct not to be in sincere sympathy with them. The Democratic party, as the defenders of the natural rights of persons, of liberty of speech and the press, of the habeas corpus and of jury trial, and assuming to be the party of the war, is as great a sham as the Democratic party nominating Horace Greely in 1872, and shouting "reform" in 1876.

John W. Forney, he that was named by President Johnson "the dead duck," is now an ardent supporter of Hancock. The following will show his real sentiments in the long ago:

"Hancock, a Johnson general, assumes command in the first military district—Louisiana—and forthwith goes the nation's colors."—Forney's Press, Jan. 10, 1868.

"Alas for the loyal men of Texas with Sheridan a thousand miles away."—Forney's Press, Jan. 10, 1868.

"Hancock should wear a gray uniform in order to soothe the sensitive people in Louisiana."—Forney's Press, Jan. 15, 1868.

An Ohio Democratic paper, the Messenger, at Fremont,—is so much pleased with the nomination of Garfield and so disgusted with Hancock that it has openly renounced the Democratic party and come out in advocacy of Garfield. It expresses the opinion that "a bona fide vote of the American people will loudly call on Gen. Garfield to take the reins of government for four years, from March 4, 1881."

Put it down somewhere so as not to forget it, the Republicans are going to elect three, and perhaps four, congressmen in the State of Virginia this fall.

The Democratic party has sought to hide its own deformity by putting General Hancock up in front of it.

Some of the Democratic journals say the country wants a "change." But, says the venerable E. D. Mansfield, in the Cincinnati Gazette, I have not heard anybody wants "change" but Democrats, and it is not surprising that they should. They wanted change when they got up session. They wanted change when they aided rebel armies to break up the union. They wanted change when they nominated McClellan and declared the war a failure. They wanted change when they nominated Seymour against Grant and tried to nullify the war. They wanted change when they nominated Greeley, and tried to hide the tiger under an ape's skin. They wanted change when they nominated Tilden, who tried to buy electors and cheat the government. They wanted change when they refused to pay the marshals to support the laws; and they want change now, when, instead of taking a Republican editor, they take a Union general under whom to cover the same old animal and hide his claws. Change! to be sure they want change; nobody doubts it. But does the patriotic honest man, the lover of his country, the independent republican want change? For what?

In 1867, Col. Forney said of Hancock: "When Gen. Hancock arrived and took command of the Fifth Military District, from every rebel throat went up songs and shouts of joy, as his plans were all known to them.

At the election of 1868 the Democratic majority in the city of New York was about 60,000, and this was sufficient to overcome a large Republican majority in the rest of the State, with 10,000 votes to spare. It has always been believed that the Democartic vote in that year was to a large extent fraudulent, and Mr. Davenport was employed by the Union League club to conduct certain investigations. He discovered that between 60,000 and 70,000 bogus naturalization papers were issued in the single year 1868, chiefly by Judges Barnard and McCunn. Previous committees of Congress had inquired of all the judges who issued naturalization papers how long the process took. Judge Brady said five minutes; the others agreed that eight or ten men an hour was as many as they could naturalize. But it appeared from the court records that Judge Barnard turned out voters at the rate of 500 an hour, and McCunn was not far behind him. These things were done while Tweed was yet in his glory. But we must not forget that the corruption of the suffrage thus introduced was a continuing danger and injustice; the 60,000 aliens supplied with bogus certificates repeated the crime every year they voted.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

For the speedy cure of Consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as stubborn Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Ashthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, Sore Throat and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs. Dr. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have complimented it in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a trial bottle free of charge or a regular size for $1.00. For sale by Frank Smith, Ypsilanti.

It can almost be asserted that St. Jacobs oil works wonders. Shortly before the New Year, when I visited my family in Mitchell, I found my son Edward, a lad little more than ten years old, very sick. He suffered with Rheumatism, and so terribly that he was perfectly stiff in his limbs, could not possibly walk, and had to be carried from place to place. At once I sent for some St. Jacobs Oil, used it according to directions, and in a few days could see evidence of considerable improvement. On the tenth of this month I again visited my family and was astonished to find him well and hearty. He once more has fresh color in his face and can go to school again. Whenever the old trouble threatens to return, relief is immediately secured by the use of the celebrated St. Jacobs Oil. From sheer joy over this result I can not withold recommending St. Jacobs Oil to suffering humanity as a true benefactor.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-pri
